

LUNAR NEW YEAR

Many Asian countries celebrate the Lunar New Year following the lunisolar calendar or cycles of the moon and sun. Some East Asian countries that celebrate the Lunar New Year are China, Korea, Japan, Tibet, Mongolia, and Vietnam. This year it falls on Tuesday, February 1.

As part of the Be the Change series, GLAC is hosting a number of events to recognize the strength and creativity of our Asian communities.

Celebrate the Lunar New Year with these lantern crafts. Made of paper, the lantern symbolizes the wish for a bright future.
